

The Georgetown County Library is collecting photographs and items related to the “1000 Year” flood! If you or someone you know took photos of the flood and its impact on South Carolina, we would like to add them to our archives.

Requirements:

1. The Donor must be willing to allow the Georgetown County Library the use of the photographs for future projects, including but not limited to, the Georgetown County Digital Library, oral histories and website PR.
2. The Georgetown County Library reserves the right to be selective about what is kept in their archive. If a photograph is deemed inappropriate, the GCL can remove it from the archive without the consent of the photographer.

If you are interested in donating photographs or other flood related items to the Georgetown Library, please fill out the form below.
