

Got a few good books?

The Georgetown Library on Cleland Street holds an ongoing book sale in its lobby, which helps support children's programs. It has been going really well! The downside is that we're almost out of books to sell.

If you have some gently-used books that need a good home, consider donating them. We accept donations during all regular library hours.

If you have any questions, don't hesitate to call our number (843)545-3300, or email Julie Warren at jwarren@gtcounty.org.

Thank you!
