

The Athenaeum Press

at Coastal Carolina University

PROUDLY PRESENTS

A Celebration of

GULLAH MUSIC

Under the Direction of Dr. Eric Crawford
Assistant Professor of Musicology Coastal Carolina University
Introducing The Freedom Readers Children's Choir

Free, one-hour program
Saturday, September 19, 2015 4pm
The Kaminski House Museum, 1003 Front St., Georgetown, SC

Through introductory readings and subsequent performances of a variety of songs and dances the Freedom Readers Choir showcases the unique impact which rice culture has had upon the low country. Performances will include "Wait in the Field," Aunt Pearly Sue's "Shake'em Song," "The Gullah Gullah TV Show Theme Song," and a dance representing the historical development of African American musical styles, from early slave moans up to jazz.

 athenaeum
PRESS at Coastal Carolina University

This event is part of the 2015 Lowcountry Rice Culture Forum.

