January 5 – Brookgreen Gardens: Nights of a Thousand Candles

Editor/publisher LINDA KETRON and photographer ANNE SWIFT MALARICH will talk about the experience of publishing this beautiful book celebrating Christmas and the winter holiday season at Brookgreen Gardens. Several contributors will read a selection of their poetic responses to the book's images.

February 2 – Jennifer Bartell; Len Lawson

JENNIFER BARTELL teaches at Spring Valley High School in Columbia. She has an MFA from the University of South Carolina; and her poetry has appeared in Callaloo, Pluck!, and the museum of americana, among others. LEN LAWSON is the author of the chapbook Before the Night Wakes You (Finishing Line Press) and co-founder of the Poets Respond to Race initiative. Recent honors include a fellowship from Callaloo Creative Writing. He teaches writing at Central Carolina Technical College.

March 2 – Jonathan K. Rice; Open Mic

JONATHAN RICE, of Charlotte, is a poet and visual artist. His most recent poetry collection is Killing Time (Main Street Rag, 2015). He is also the founding editor of Iodine Poetry Journal. OPEN MIC will follow Jonathan's reading. All who attend are invited to read one of their own poems. (Please keep your reading to a single poem no longer than a page.) We'll all look forward to hearing a variety of voices, including yours. Please join in!

April 6 – Kate Daniels; Hard Lines: Rough South Poetry

Nationally known poet KATE DANIELS, professor and Director of Creative Writing at Vanderbilt University, is the author of several poetry collections—the latest, A Walk in Victoria's Secret. Among her many honors are a Guggenheim Fellowship and Pushcart Prize. She will offer a reading of her poems, including her work in the new anthology Hard Lines: Rough South Poetry (University of South Carolina Press, 2016). Introducing her will be co-editor DANIEL CROSS TURNER, who will also talk about the anthology's focus. Author George Singleton describes Hard Lines as "a wonderful selection of writers wrestling with, and extolling, the most intricate, beautiful, and perplexing aspects of our South."
